Who Shot Shakespeare

ACADEMIC YEAR 2013/14

AN INTERACTING PUBLICATION

LAUGH WHILE YOU LEARN

Introduction to Your Teacher's Pack!

Dear Teachers.

D is c ussion around our show is important and helpful for the students.

- It can help students to familiarise themselves with the subject matter of the show.
- It can help students put the show in a historical context.
- It can help students place the show in a wider social context.
- It can help students learn about other cultures and traditions.
- It can help students make useful comparisons to their own cultures and literary traditions.

Classroom discussion surrounding the subject matter of the show can provide much more than we can hope to bring in our one hour stage production!

In addition to classroom discussion we've included on-line work and INTERACTING activities that you may wish to do with your students.

We aim that students have an entertaining and educational time. We are always pleased to hear from teachers who have comments or suggestions.

You can write to us on hello@interacting.info

Remember to laugh while you learn!

"It is not in the stars to hold our destiny but in ourselves."

DID YOU KNOW...

It was illegal for women and girls to perform in the theatre in Shakespeare's lifetime so all the female parts were written for boys. The text of some plays like Hamlet and Antony and Cleopatra refer to that. It was only much later, during the Restoration, that the first woman appeared on the English stage.

Investigate.

We suggest you start with some very general and open discussion to see how much your students actually know about the William Shakespeare and his plays.

Put the students in groups. Each group should have a captain or spokesperson who will report back to the entire class. Groups should open discussion by looking at the following questions.

Find out how much your students actually know about William Shakespeare.

Who was he?

When was he born?

Where did he come from?

What does he look like?

Why is he famous?

Who was his wife?

Find out how much they know about his plays.

What are some of his tragedies?

Which is the most famous?

Name some of his comedies?

Who is his most famous character?

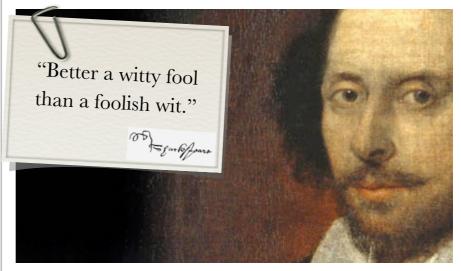

Did he write more than just plays?

Useful comparisons.

Let's Start Talking

On-Line Work

A good starting point for students coming to see WHO SHOT SHAKESPEARE? is referring them to some general information about Shakespeare the playwright and to some of his greatest works. You can direct students to...

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/ Shakespeare

How much do your students know about Shakespeare? How much do they think they know? Here is a quiz which will test their general knowledge. We suggest they do it in teams and test each other!

http://www.shakespeareonline.com/quiz/

Unlike themes of other shows where online work is structured as there are not so many resources on the topic, there is such a tremendous catalogue of material available on William Shakespeare that we'd suggest just to let your students surf and find out anything or any line of investigation that they find interesting about the English Bard.

Research

In Who Shot Shakespeare? we take a closer look at some of the best known and maybe most tragic scenes from Shakespeare's plays. In preparation for the show we recommend that students research the following scenes, themes and characters. Teachers should not worry if there is not time to prepare as the show can be thoroughly enjoyed without prior preparation as well.

Romeo and Juliet

- Balcony scene. Act II scene 2
- Romeo and Juliet death scene. Act V scene 3.

Bizarre Death scenes

- Anthony and Cleopatra. Act V scene 2.
- Othello. Act V scene 2.
- The winter's Tale. Act III scene 3.

Characters for Line up

- Richard III from Richard III
- Lady Macbeth from Macbeth
- · Ophelia from Hamlet
- Puck from A Midsummer-Night's Dream

Also students are advised to familiarise themselves with the tragic last scene from Hamlet.

Fun Shakespeare Facts

FUN FACT 1

Shakespeare was buried in the Holy Trinity Church, Stratford-upon-Avon. He put a curse on anyone daring to move his body from that final resting place. His epitaph was:

Good friend for Jesus' sake forbear, To dig the dust enclosed here: Blest be the man that spares these stones, And curst be he that moves my bones.

Though it was customary to dig up the bones from previous graves to make room for others, Shakespeare's remains are still undisturbed.

INTERESTING FACT 2

Shakespeare and Anne Hathaway had three children together – a son, Hamnet, who died in 1596, and two daughters, Susanna and Judith. His only granddaughter Elizabeth – daughter of Susanna – died childless in 1670. Shakespeare therefore has no descendants. Read more about Shakespeare's family.

AMAZING FACT 3

During his life, Shakespeare wrote 37 plays and 154 sonnets! This means an average 1.5 plays a year since he first started writing in 1589. His last play The Two Noble Kinsmen is reckoned to have been written in 1613 when he was 49 years old. While he was writing the plays at such a pace he was also conducting a family life, a social life and a full business life, running an acting company and a theatre.

SURPRISING FACT 4

Few people realise that apart from writing his numerous plays and sonnets, Shakespeare was also an actor who performed many of his own plays as well as those of other playwrights. During his life Shakespeare performed before Queen Elizabeth I and, later, before James I who was an enthusiastic patron of his work.

FUN FACT 5

Shakespeare is the second most quoted writer in the English language – after the various writers of the Bible.

INTERESTING FACT 6

Shakespeare's Globe Theatre burnt down on 29th June 1613 after a cannon shot set fire to it during a performance of Henry VIII. (See our article on interesting facts on The Globe Theatre.)

INSIDER'S FACT 7

Suicide occurs an unlucky thirteen times in Shakespeare's plays. It occurs in Romeo and Juliet where both Romeo and Juliet commit suicide, in Julius Caesar where both Cassius and Brutus die by consensual stabbing, as well as Brutus' wife Portia.

FUN FACT 8

Some of Shakespeare's signatures have survived on original documents. In none of them does he spell his name in what has become the standard way. He spells it Shakespe; Shakspe; Shakspere and Shakespear.

INTERACTING ACTIVITIES FOR TEACHERS

The following activities can be used in any way teachers wish. We suggest you carefully read the activity description and then to think how to adapt them for your own classroom situation. All the activities can be quickly changed to use before or after a performance. We believe the most important objective in using the activities is to get your students up, moving and laughing while they learn!

We hope you enjoy these activities and please send us your ideas and if you want more get in touch with us hello@interacting.info

AUTOBIOGRAPHIES, ICE BREAKER

In a circle each player takes a turn to speak about themselves for about thirty seconds and then the rest of the players are invited to ask questions. There are various versions of this; one is to ask players to speak about themselves for as long as they can hold a lighted match. Another is to displace the focus from the speaker to an object, any object, could be a magic sock or a motivating pen. The leader of the group throws or passes the magic article when the action stops the person holding the object speaks. Other variations define the area of personal description for example get the person to speak for thirty seconds on their home or family or focus on likes and dislikes

ALPHABET SHAPES

In this team-building warm-up the leader shouts out a letter from the alphabet (saying if it is a capital or small case letter) – the group have to make the letter shape using everybody in the group. On the first few attempts no time limit is imposed but gradually the leader should introduce a time limit and keep reducing it until the group can effectively make alphabet shapes in ten seconds.

CHINESE WHISPERS

All players sit in a circle. Two messages or statements are written out and concealed from the group. One message is whispered from one player to the next in one direction and the other message is sent in the opposite direction. Compare final messages with original messages.

Variation:

Before revealing the final and original message, have all the players write down what they understood the message to be. Then read the original message followed by each consecutive message until at least the final message is reached.

LINE GREETINGS

Players make two equal lines facing each other. One line is A the other B. Lines A and B walk towards each other and meet in the middle _ line A in unison say 'Hello, how are you?' Line B reply 'Fine thanks, and you?' They shake hands and walk on. Now line A stands where line B stood and vice versa. Repeat this several times until the lines get the rhythm. Then suggest that they walk towards each other but this time as two snobs, they have to walk like snobs, talk like snobs ands be a snob until they reach the other side. Then suggest: like beggars, babies, angry people, long lost friends, lovers, spies etc. Alternatively try replacing the dialogue with numbers so line a will say '1, 2, 3 and 4' and line B replies '5, 6, 7 and 8'. They should attempt that the intonation and rhyme of the numbers convey mood and character

GROUP VEHICLE MIME

In groups players must mime a large moving vehicle. One player may be the driver or passenger but the other must form the vehicle. Players should add sound effects. Players should try to represent not only the part but how it functions. If we see train doors, how do they open? To help the players they can look at different types of vehicles and examine their major component parts. Players should be given enough time to prepare. As a warm up the entire group can look at ways of representing one or two vehicles

The Globe Theatre

The Globe Theatre was a theatre in London associated with William Shakespeare. It was built in 1599 by Shakespeare's playing company, The Lord Chamberlain's Men, on land owned by Thomas Brend. It was destroyed by fire on 29th June 1613. A second Globe Theatre was built on the same site by June 1614 and then closed in June 1642.

A modern reconstruction of the Globe, named
"Shakespear's Globe",
opened in 1997,
approximately 230
metres from the original theatre.

On 29 June 1613 the Globe Theatre went up in flames during a performance of Henry VIII. A theatrical cannon, set off during during the performance, misfired, igniting the wooden beems and thatching. According to one of the few surviving documents of the event, no-one was hurt except a man, whose

burning breaches were put out with a bottle of ale.

Like all the other theatres in London, the Globe was closed down by the Puritans in 1642.

Shakespeare lived a double life. By the seventeenth century he had become a famous playwright in London but in his hometown of Stratford, where his wife and children were, and which he visited frequently, he was a well known and highly respected businessman and property owner.
